Bryant Terry is a nationally recognized eco chef, author, and food justice activist, and he is currently a Food and Society Policy Fellow. In 2001 he founded b-healthy, a five-year initiative created to raise awareness about food justice issues and empower low-income youth to be active in creating a more just and sustainable food system. Called "ingenious" by The New York Times Magazine, his critically acclaimed first book, Grub: Ideas for an Urban Organic Kitchen (Tarcher/Penguin, 2006) with co-author Anna Lappé, is a winner of the 2007 Nautilus Book Award.

Peggy da Silva

Education and Training Manager, Veritable Vegetable, Inc.

1100 Cesar Chavez, San Francisco CA 94124

Cell. 415.305.7897 www.veritablevegetable.com

Peggy da Silva represents Veritable Vegetable, the country's oldest organic produce distributor. Peggy has over 30 years of experience in public health, with special interest in environmental and nutritional policy. Presently Peggy leads the Education and Training Department at VV, handling both staff training and community education. VV supports sustainable agriculture by providing the essential link between farmers that grow and markets that sell fresh, healthy fruits and vegetables. Peggy's role is to increase everyone's understanding of how a healthy, ecologically sound food system operates: nuts, bolts, trucks, pallets, computers and all.
